

Rapid Recovery Performs Emergency Refrigerant Recovery at Praxair Gas in Pittsburg, CA

Concord, California – April 2, 2006 – Rapid Recovery, a Contra Costa County based refrigerant abatement company, recently completed a project for Applied Process Cooling Corporation of Modesto, California, at the Praxair Gas facility in Pittsburg, California.

The refrigerant removal performed on March 30, 2006, consisted of recovering 3,170 pounds of R-22 from a dual circuit chiller. Laura of Applied Process Cooling Corporation had called in the morning of March 30. The job needed to be done quickly so that the necessary repair and service could be performed. In order to satisfy Applied Process Cooling Corporation's request, Rapid Recovery arrived on-site within hours of receiving the call to remove the refrigerant from the chiller. Rapid Recovery provided cylinders and left the refrigerant on-site for Applied Process Cooling Corporation so they could re-charge the chiller. Rapid Recovery also provided the required EPA paperwork.

When asked about the role his company played in the project, Rapid Recovery's Derek Oosterhouse said, "Our fast response is something we staff for. Upon receiving the call we were able to mobilize quickly. The refrigerant recovery went well--it took just hours--enabling Applied Process Cooling Corporation to get the chiller back on-line quickly."
